

Restaurátori munka a Perczel-glóbusz újraalkotásában

Lente Zsuzsanna

Mit lehet / érdemes csinálni

- rekonstrukció a Perczel földgömbről
 - koncepció a leendő megrendelővel egyeztetve
 - méret
 - papír kísérletek
 - anyagok
 - technológia

Példák másolatokra

Copley Globe

Gottorfer Globus

A művészi másolat nagy érték

THE DAILY PLANET

1p

No 1492-2000

ODINS DAY, 24 NOVEMBER 1999

PAGE 1

Globe collectors fight for fine pair of facsimile globes at Christies globe sale.

Pair of Facsimile globes sold in leading London Auction House for £37,835.00!!!

BY EMMY BUTTON, ARTS CORRESPONDENT

A fine pair of facsimile globes have been sold at Christies for an impressive £28,000. This figure does not include other Christies buyers premium of 15% or VAT for a U.K. purchaser, making an impressive total of £37,835.00.

The globes were given an estimate of £9,000-£14,000. A delighted Mr Bissell-Thomas, the owner of Greaves and Thomas, the company which manufactures the globes said: "The final bid far surpassed our expectation, we are elated."

Greaves and Thomas, a small company presently based in Brentford, prides itself on the craftsmanship of traditional globe making. They now produce an extensive range of globes spanning cartographic history. The Coronelli pair are made up of 24 half section gores which are then finely watercoloured. Each globe takes weeks to prepare and includes numerous different crafts which requires much skill and concentration.

This magnificent pair of 33 inch facsimile library globes, signed on the meridian G & T London, was originally published by Vincenzo Coronelli in 1688 and 1693, the gores contain many decorative cartouches and illustrations.

It is not the first time that Greaves & Thomas Globes have been sold through Christies, in 1996, Mr Bissell-Thomas discovered that Christies had sold a Greaves & Thomas' 1881 Facsimile globe as an original. This globe which then retailed for £160 sold for a staggering £4,320. Since then, at a recent Christies Dutch sale, Two Greaves & Thomas' 1492 facsimile globes fell under the hammer. Despite the globes being clearly listed as Greaves & Thomas facsimiles, they still sold for four times the price when usually retailed by Greaves & Thomas.

Mr Bissell-Thomas commented that: "We have worked hard to produce a fine item, the price clearly justifies careful planning that my team and I undertook, in a day where usually a 'designer' handbag or a pretentious monogrammed trunk fetch ludicrous prices it is reassuring to see an item sell well solely due to its workmanship."

It is only recently that Greaves & Thomas have republished the Coronelli Globes, when first made in the 17th century they were slightly larger at 43 inches diameter. Greaves & Thomas are presently gearing up to make the globes at this original size: "We would have undertaken the 43 inch version sooner, however we simply didn't have large enough doors in our present workshops, this has now been rectified as we have purchased a crumbling Grade II Victorian arcade on the Isle of Wight, here measuring the doors was unnecessary, as we soon found several large holes big enough, in the roof," said Mr Bissell-Thomas.

www.greavesandthomas.co.uk

Rekonstrukció

- nagy érdeklődést váltana ki világszerte
- a szép tárgyak széppé teszik a környezetüket

Lente Zsuzsanna
okl. restaurátor művész
lente_zsuzsa@mail.datanet.hu